38. [Suggested Answer] I think
Mrs Gargery would have been angry with him. Perhaps he would have been punished.

39. [Suggested Answer] No, I wouldn't. Being poor or common isn't something to be ashamed of. One should be ashamed only if they did something that is morally wrong or dishonest.

Chapter 1

1. He was an orphan. He lived with his sister who didn't like the idea of looking after him.
2. At the beginning of the novel, nature around Pip reflected his inner feelings. His afternoon was "cold" and "grey", just like this period of Pip's life that was dark and sad.
3. Perhaps I would. Pip didn't enjoy family warmth. He was unwelcome at home. His sister didn't like him. He went to the graveyard to visit his parents' grave because he really missed them.
4. Pip's sister did not like the idea of looking after him. She was a grumpy woman who was not a good wife. However, Joe was kind-hearted by nature. He was always friendly to Pip.
5. Pip suffered because he was an orphan. He missed his parents. When parents die, they take family warmth with them. Even Joe's kindness did not make Pip enjoy family warmth.
6. I completely agree. Joe was kind and friendly to Pip, whether as a child or as a gentleman. When Pip was a child, Joe was a good friend to him. When Pip was a gentleman, Joe paid his debts and looked after him.
7. I would treat Pip kindly. He was her little brother. She should have been a mother and a father to him after his parents' death.
8. No, I wouldn't. Before we take people's things, we should ask them first. Taking people's things without permission is a dishonest behaviour.
9. The soldiers arrived just when Mrs Joe discovered the disappearance of the Pie. That made everybody forget about it.
10. Perhaps I wouldn't like her very much. She was cruel to him. She made him feel unwanted by her.
11. No, I wouldn't. She was a grumpy woman who was always shouting or complaining. She also did not like the idea of being the wife of a blacksmith.
12. She had a kind husband who tolerated مع تسامح her grumpy behaviour. She was also lucky in that her husband liked her orphan brother.

13. I would try hard to know what happened to it. I would ask Joe and Pip if one of them took it.
14. I partly agree. The convict frightened Pip. However, Pip might have sympathized تعاطف with the convict because he was lonely like him.
15. Pip met the convict and stole a pie and a file for him from the blacksmith's house. The police soldiers came to the house to fix some handcuffs.

Chapter 2

1. Instead of hiding, they fought each other and shouted loudly. That guided the soldiers to the convicts' place.
2. Yes, I agree. Magwitch told everyone that he stole the pie and the file from the blacksmith's house to protect Pip from punishment. Later, he was Pip's secret benefactor.
3. I don't think so. Pip wasn't afraid of Joe's reaction. He did not want to lose Joe as a friend.
4. Yes, I agree. Joe was kind and friendly to Pip, whether as a child or as a gentleman. When Pip was a child, Joe was a good friend to him. When Pip was a gentleman, Joe paid his debts and looked after him.

5. Yes, I agree. She was careful to make Estella become cruel, cold and proud to break men's hearts. She also enjoyed seeing Pip's heart being broken by Estella.
6. Miss Havisham made Estella break Pip's heart as a child and as a young man. Magwitch's heart was broken when Molly disappeared with their daughter.
7. Estella treated Pip proudly and that made him sad. However, he wanted to be a gentleman to make her admire him.

Chapter 3

1. She insisted that Pip go to Miss Havisham's house because she thought it was good for him. She also kept the coin and the one-pound note and did not spend them.
2. Miss Havisham kept everything in her house as it was on the day of her unsuccessful wedding. She deserted life. She could have found love and happiness with somebody else but she insisted on her negative situation.

Part 3

- No, I wouldn't. life is full of ups and downs. When we fail, we must have a new start. We do not give up to failure. Miss Havisham destroyed her own life by what she did.
- Her wealth is what made her fiancé and her brother trick her.

Chapter 4

- Because Estella was away, there was no need for Pip to come. There was no one to break his heart there. Miss Havisham might also have wanted Pip to concentrate on his apprenticeship with Joe.
- He attacked Mrs Joe and injured her badly. He tried to kill Pip.
- I don't agree. He wanted to take revenge on her because he didn't like her.
- I think because she was a simple person who had simple dreams. She was also from the same social class as Pip.
- Pip was like a slave to Estella. Although he knew she wouldn't make him happy, he couldn't stop loving her.
- I partly agree. For some time, he was ungrateful to Joe who has always loved and supported him. He was also ungrateful to Biddy who had helped him a lot.

Chapter 5

- Mr Jaggers, her lawyer, was his benefactor's lawyer. Mr Jaggers suggested Mr Matthew Pocket, Miss Havisham's relative, to be his teacher.
- Pip grew into a real gentleman. She will enjoy seeing such a gentleman being heart-broken by Estella.
- He was her lawyer. He could employ the people who worked for her.
- Whenever Estella said something good to him, his hopes increased. When she showed her pride and cruelty, he was quick to be disappointed.
- She destroyed her life when she thought of revenge. She missed the chance of getting married and having a happy family.
- No, I wouldn't. Love and marriage do not necessarily require giving money to her fiancé. He was supposed to marry her for herself, not her money.
- Miss Havisham did not accept

Mr Matthew Pocket's advice when he warned her about her fiancé.

8. The Pockets' house was full of love, life and family warmth.

Chapter 6

1. He never locked the door to his house. He was feared by all criminals. Estella said he knew everything about everywhere.
2. Maybe he wanted to reveal more about himself through boasting. Perhaps Mr Jaggers wanted to know how Pip would react to Drummle's boasting.
3. No, I don't like him. He was boastful. In addition, he was not a good person to know.
4. I think she wanted to use the language that was suitable for Pip as a gentleman.
5. No, I wouldn't. Joe and Pip are supposed to be friends. There are no titles when talking to friends even if one of these friends has become a gentleman.
6. I would do my best to make Joe feel comfortable. Pip should have treated Joe in a simple welcoming way to make him feel better.

Chapter 7

1. Although Pip was sure Estella wouldn't make him happy, he could not stop loving her. She treated him proudly. She broke his heart. However, he still loved her.
2. This statement is not true. Miss Havisham spent money on Estella to make her an upper-class beautiful lady that could break men's hearts.
3. ... be kind to Joe and Bidley. I would do my best to be a successful gentleman.
4. ... try hard to get rid of the cruel and proud nature I had. I would marry Pip, not Drummle.
5. ... forget about revenge and start a new life to have a happy family.
6. ... be proud of my kind heart. I would go on loving and supporting others.
7. ... stop hurting others. I would also look for a good job.
8. Miss Havisham spent money on Estella to make her an upper-class beautiful lady that could break men's hearts. She destroyed Estella's life and broke Pip's heart. At the end of the novel, however, Pip and Estella had a new promising start.

Part 3

Chapter 8

1. As a gentleman, Pip behaved proudly towards his old friends, especially Joe. He was ashamed of his relation to Joe and the poor people of his village.
2. Joe continued to be kind and loving to Pip. He always welcomed and supported him. He paid his debts and looked after him when he was ill.
3. No, I wouldn't. Drummle was a bad person who always boasted about himself.
4. The writer wanted to convey that Mrs Joe's tired soul روح would finally rest for ever.
5. Yes, he was special to her in some way. She told him that she would be unkind to all men except for him.
6. Yes, it was. Being away from Pip would help Herbert stop wasting money. He would work and earn money instead of being in debt.
7. Perhaps I would. Magwitch was grateful to Pip and regarded him as a son. However, it was better for Magwitch to try to find his lost daughter.

Chapter 9

1. Pip became sure that Provis, the convict, was his benefactor. That would necessarily affect Pip's position badly. It was not socially acceptable that a benefactor is a convict.
2. It was a difficult situation for Pip. Magwitch was Pip's benefactor who sacrifices his life and returned to England to see him. Pip owed much to Provis. He had no choice but to welcome him.
3. That is not true at all. Pip liked the idea that Miss Havisham was his benefactor because that meant she wanted him to marry Estella. The fact that Provis was Pip's benefactor would make it difficult for Pip to be admired by Estella.
4. I don't agree. He had a life sentence in England. He shouldn't have returned at all.
5. He destroyed Miss Havisham's life by deserting her on their wedding day. He destroyed Magwitch's life. He made Magwitch steal for him and told the court that it was Magwitch who did everything.
6. It was a difficult situation for Pip. Magwitch was Pip's benefactor who sacrifices his life and returned to England to see him. However, it was illegal to help an escaped convict.

Chapter 10

- I guess that she wanted to see him heart-broken. She wanted to enjoy seeing him destroyed at the moment he was told the news by Estella.
- No, there wasn't much he could do. Estella wanted to marry Drummle and it was all arranged by Miss Havisham.
- She would have a family and she might enjoy her life. She would not adopt Estella or destroy her life.
- No, I am not sorry for him. Although he had experienced difficult situations, that made him stronger.
- No, I don't agree. She only wanted to use Estella to take revenge on men. However, she destroyed Estella's life without intention.
- No, she wouldn't. No natural mother would use her daughter as a tool for revenge.
- Miss Havisham regretted destroying her life and the lives of those around her, but it was too late. Nothing could be done.

Chapter 11

- She could stop Estella marrying Drummle. She could also help Pip marry Estella.
- I would forgive her. Forgiveness is a good human value.
- He should have looked for her day and night until he found her. Once he found her, he should have done everything good he could do for her.
- Of course, I would. After all, she was a human.
- No, he wouldn't. He was a bad person who loved and boasted only about himself.

Chapter 12

- Pip doesn't achieve either of his goals, although he is a gentleman for a time. He ends up with no money and Joe has to pay off his debts while Estella ends up marrying Drummle. However, he does well in his job in Egypt and becomes a manager, and there is hope at the end that he may end up with Estella after all.
- This is completely true. His return to England was a big mistake. He had a life sentence in England and he was arrested.

Part 3

3. Joe and Biddy were both kind and simple. They knew how to enjoy the simplest things in life. Their good nature helped them have a happy family.
4. Pip wanted to be a gentleman. He didn't want to be a blacksmith. He suffered a lot while he was trying to achieve his great expectations. Biddy, on the other hand, was a simple woman who had simple ambitions. She reached her simple ambitions when she married Joe and had a happy family.
5. Yes, I think so. Joe was kind, loving and helpful. That is all Biddy wanted to feel happy.
6. I feel that life is worth living. It does not deserve conflict or revenge.
7. It is bad to let your feelings guide you. A human should use his mind as a guide in this life. Miss Havisham let her feelings guide her. That led to the destruction of her life.
8. - When we fail to forgive others who hurt us, our life becomes full of hurts and disappointment.
- Becoming a gentleman does not necessarily make you a better person .

Test yourself : General higher-order exercises on the novel

1. Joe was kind to Pip. He paid Pip's debts and looked after him when he was ill. Mrs Joe was unkind to Pip. She punished him just because he went to the graveyard.
2. Biddy was simple and she admired Pip as he was. On the other hand, Estella was proud and hard-hearted. She rejected Pip's feelings more than once.
3. Mrs Joe's behaviour towards Pip was cruel. She always complained about him. She didn't like the idea of looking after him.
4. Miss Havisham first brought Pip to her house to give little Estella the chance to train on breaking people's hearts. Magwitch was grateful to Pip who brought him food and a file. He wanted Pip to be a true gentleman.
5. Pip saved Miss Havisham from the fire although she helped break his heart. He also was kind to Herbert and helped him get a good job.
6. Yes, I agree. Pip knew it was important to get a good education to be a gentleman.

He asked Biddy to teach him everything she knew. He also attended lessons with Mr Matthew Pocket.

7. Pip knew that being a gentleman requires having good education. He asked Biddy to help him get good education. That helped him a lot when he got a lot of money from a benefactor. He was already on the right route towards being a gentleman.
8. Miss Havisham could not overcome the shock of being deserted by her fiancé, Compeyson, on her wedding day. This memory controlled the rest of her life. She lived to take revenge on men.
9. Miss Havisham was shocked when her fiancé left her. Her life stopped at that moment. She adopted a beautiful girl called Estella and trained her well to be proud, cool and hard-hearted. She prepared Estella to break men's hearts.
10. Estella, who had been trained to be cruel and proud by Miss Havisham, rejected Pip's love. She was the tool which Miss Havisham used to break Pip's heart.
11. She was a grumpy woman. She didn't like the idea of looking after her little brother. She didn't like being a wife to a blacksmith.
12. Estella behaved towards Pip in a cruel way to satisfy Miss Havisham who had trained her to be cruel to men and break their hearts.
13. He observed that the man at the café stirred his tea with the file he had given to Magwitch. He also observed that something might have happened to Miss Havisham and went back to rescue her from the fire.
14. She had a simple character. She was loving and helpful. When Mrs Joe was unable to look after the Joes, she helped them. She was the type of women who were easily pleased.
15. At a stage, he was ashamed of his friendship with Joe. After Magwitch had returned to England, he did not welcome his appearance at first.

38. [Suggested Answer] These words show how Joe was a kind person. He was different from his wife who was Pip's elder sister. Yet, she used to hit her younger brother.

39. [Suggested Answer] I think he wasn't always ungrateful. Because he was ungrateful to Joe and Biddy. On the other side, he was grateful to Magwitch and Herbert.
