Heidemarie Schwermer, a 63-year-old German woman, has lived without money for the last ten years, and has written a book about her experience called "My Life Without Money".

At the age of 54 Heidemarie gave up her job as a psychotherapist, gave away all her money and her flat and threw away her credit cards. Today, apart from a few clothes ( three sweaters, two skirts, two pairs of shoes, and a coat) and a few personal belongings, she doesn't own anything. It all began as one-year experiment. In her home city of Dortmund she set up a "swapping circle" where people swap services without using money, for example, a haircut for a mathematics class.

At first, she house-sat for friends who were on holidays. She stayed in their house in return for watering the plants and looking after their animals. At the moment, she is staying in a student residence where she can sleep, have shower, or use a computer in return for cooking the young people who live there. She also works as psychotherapist. Before I treated very wealthy people but now I help anyone who turns up. Sometimes they give me something in return , but not always.
