I- Read the following text then choose the correct answer a, b, c or d : (60 marks)

E-learning is the use of networked information and communication technology in teaching and learning. It combines all educational activities that are carried out by individuals or groups working online or offline. E-learning helps teachers in the communication with their students at all times and increases the students' ability to study on their own. The importance of e-learning lies in the fact that the students need to be busy with what they are doing to improve learning outcomes. E-learning enables students to become thinkers, learners and risk takers in a protected environment, so they need not rely on the teachers, as they can be independent. Learning can happen anywhere, anytime and anyhow. It encourages students to seek more from school. When the course is developed, it can be run as many times, at as many locations and for as many learners and thus it reduces the general cost and time. The chief benefit of learning online is that you are in harmonisation with modern learners by accessing updated content whenever they want it. On the other hand, if an individual lacks self-discipline, they will not be motivated to study bringing about delay.

- The main idea of E-learning is .....
  - learning through traditional classroom methods
  - learning using electronic devices and the Internet
  - learning only through offline activities
  - learning without the use of technology
- E-learning ..... the students' self-responsibility.
  - decreases
  - increases
  - eliminates the need for
  - has no effect on
- The benefit of e-learning regarding learning outcomes is that .....
  - it reduces the need for thinking and risk-taking
  - it increases dependence on teachers
  - it encourages students to become independent thinkers and learners
  - it limits students' ability to study on their own
- Traditional learning ..... than e-learning.
  - is less expensive
  - is cheaper
  - costs more money
  - needs less money
- One of the possible hurdles of e-learning is that .....
  - students receive updated course content frequently

  - e-learning courses are not always available
  - there is no opportunity for interaction with teachers
- The word 'it' refers to .....
  - benefit
  - content
  - learners
  - online

II- Read the following text then decide if the sentences are true or false: (60 marks)

Living and working in another country is no doubt an experience that opens the door to a wide choice of experiences. It is a life challenge and a good and direct way to learn a new language, become familiar with a new culture as well as test our adaptability. Whether for a long or a short period of time, this new journey is always a major challenge, because we have to overcome numerous obstacles. Leaving behind life as we know it is the first one. It is definitely a challenge to start a new life without family, colleagues, and perhaps not speaking the language. The moment when we arrive in another country, we feel life is giving us a new opportunity. Difficulties we have to overcome provide the reward of moving us forward, stretching our limits. Situations we do not normally face in our home country, we now do on a daily basis. For example, if we are not yet familiar with the local language, we are forced to learn small things such as going to the super market, finding our way to work even though we do not know how to ask, not knowing where to buy a good lunch and overpaying for food for the first weeks until a kind soul helps us understand. Yet all of this helps develop our independence and adaptability to new situations.

- Living and working in another country can lead to a wide range of experiences and opportunities.
- The text says the best way to learn a new language is to take classes before moving.
- The biggest difficulty of moving to another country is forgetting how to do everyday tasks.
- Learning the local language is not necessary for successfully doing daily tasks in a new country.
- Developing independence and adaptability is a positive outcome of experiencing life in a new country.
- Overcoming obstacles and challenges is a significant aspect of adapting to life in a new country.
