My name is David Hedrick. I joined the Teaching in Rural Thailand programme. The project was amazing. My host family was amazing . My host family made a great effort to learn some English and I did my best to learn a couple of Thai words. Teaching was great fun but also quite challenging because I was teaching many different classes and all different levels of English.

On Sundays, I went to primary schools to teach the little ones together with other teachers from Prangku who teach on a voluntary basis on Sundays. All the teachers at Prangku are so committed and dedicate also so much of their free time to the school and the students. It is really remarkable. And the students were just wonderful. They were so nice and polite and really eager to learn English.
