Hi! I'm Shamma , and I want to tell you about my awesome family. We're like a team of superheroes, but without capes (well, most of the time). My family is made up of my mom, dad, little brother Hammed, and me. We might not have superpowers, but we sure know how to make life exciting! One thing that makes my family so special is our weekend traditions. Every Saturday morning, we turn our living room into a pancake paradise. Mom flips the pancakes high in the air, and we try to catch them on our plates. It's like a breakfast circus, and it always makes us laugh. Another cool thing about my family is our love for nature. Dad is like a walking encyclopedia about birds, and he taught me how to identify different species. Last winter, we went on a camping trip, and I saw a shooting star for the first time. It was magical, and I made a wish that our family would always be together, exploring the wonders of the world. But, like any team, we have our challenges. Hammed sometimes borrows my things without asking, and Mom says I need to be more patient. I guess being a superhero in training requires teamwork and understanding. In conclusion, my family is the best adventure I could ever have. We may not be perfect, but we're perfect for each other. Our pancake mornings and nature explorations make us a team, and I wouldn't trade them for anything in the world!

Movies

I like watching movies. The best place to see new movies is at the cinema, but I usually watch films at home or at my friend's house.

I like animation, but my favourite type of movie is science fiction. The stories are always interesting and exciting. But most of all, they have amazing special effects.

I also really like the costumes. They are unusual. I would like to wear clothes like that, but I think some of them would be uncomfortable to wear. They do look interesting, though I'm pleased that the producers spend a lot of money to make science fiction films. These are the movies that I like to watch again and again.

I don't like horror films because they scare me. The terrifying music scares me most of all. When I hear the music, I know something bad is going to happen. I don't like the strange characters or the dark settings either.

I never enjoy films that are not positive and inspiring. Movies should make you feel good, not negative and sad.
