GRADE 10 – UNIT SEVEN – READING COMPREHENSION

Read the following passage carefully, and then answer the questions that follow:

Floods are second only to rainforest wildfires as the most common of all natural disasters. They occur almost everywhere in the world, resulting in widespread damage and even death. Consequently, scientists have long tried to perfect their ability to predict floods. So far, the best that scientists can do is to recognise the potential for flooding in certain conditions. There are several conditions, from deep snow on the ground to human error, that cause flooding.

When deep snow melts, it creates a large amount of water. Although deep snow alone rarely causes floods, it can lead to serious flooding when it occurs together with heavy rain and sudden warmer weather. If there is a fast snow melt on top of frozen or very wet ground, flooding is more likely to occur than when the ground is not frozen. Frozen grounds or grounds that are very wet and already saturated with water cannot absorb the additional water created by the melting snow. Melting snow also contributes to high water levels in rivers and streams. Whenever rivers are already at their full capacity of water, heavy rains will result in the rivers overflowing and flooding the surrounding land.

Rivers that are covered in ice can also lead to flooding. When ice begins to melt, the surface of the ice cracks and breaks into large pieces. These pieces of ice move and float down the river. They can form a dam in the river, causing the water behind the dam to rise and flood the land upstream. If the dam breaks suddenly, then the large amount of water held behind the dam can flood the areas downstream too.

Unleashed dam water can travel tens of kilometres, covering the ground with mud and waste. It can drown and crush everything and every creature in its path. Although scientists cannot always predict exactly when floods will occur, they do know a great deal about when floods are likely, or probably, going to occur. Deep snow, ice-covered rivers, and weak dams are all strong conditions for potential flooding. Hopefully, this knowledge of why floods happen can help us reduce the damage they cause.

From a, b, c or d, choose the correct answer.

01. The best title for the passage would be:

- a. Melting Snow
- b. Causes of Floods
- c. Flooding Rivers
- d. A Scientific Research

02. The underlined word "unleashed" in the 4th paragraph means:
- covered
 - created
 - released
 - astonished
03. The underlined word "their" in the 2nd paragraph refers to:
- rivers
 - grounds
 - streams
 - water levels
04. According to the passage, the most common natural disaster is:
- rivers floods
 - the heavy rain
 - the melting snow
 - the rainforest wildfires
05. According to the passage, ONE of the following sentences is FALSE:
- Saturated ground contributes to flooding.
 - Scientists can give exactly when and how floods will happen.
 - Scientists have long tried to perfect their ability to predict floods.
 - Deep snow with heavy rains and sudden warm temperatures can cause flooding.
06. The purpose of the writer in writing this passage is to:
- suggest solutions to resist natural disasters.
 - compare floods with other natural disasters.
 - persuade the readers that rivers are not the main cause of floods.
 - inform the readers of what causes floods to help reduce future damage.

With reference to the passage, answer the following questions.

07. What might happen when the surface of the frozen river cracks and breaks into large pieces?

These large pieces can form a dam and cause floods.

08. What are the results of snow melting?

Creating a large amount of water.

GRADE 10 – UNIT EIGHT – READING COMPREHENSION

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

Dreams are fascinating. You can have nice ones, realistic ones or those that are scary, strange or imaginary. They occur as you sleep and generally become more vivid as the sleep stage progresses. Sometimes you can't remember a dream; others may be unclear, while there are some that can be closely recalled because they are so intense. These are what we call Vivid Dreams.

So, have you experienced any vivid dreams? Social media and online forums are crammed with stories of vivid dreams. Experts are claiming that there is a lot of truth in this phenomenon. People are sleeping longer, and this allows more time for dreaming. In addition, the more boring your life is, the more your nighttime brain activity tries to recompense and the more exciting your dreams become.

However, what do those dreams mean? Experts decline and refuse that dreams can predict events, but they can help us understand our feelings. The events in dreams are symbolic. For example, missing that train might indicate that you are feeling left behind, or simply that you are nervous. Walking on air shows your feeling of being impossible to defeat. If you dream that your teeth are falling out, you have bitten off more than you can chew. Slow down and do less! Dreaming of natural disasters – earthquakes, tsunamis and volcanic eruptions can be intense and terrifying. They show that you are feeling frightened by events out of your control.

It is worthwhile to try and discover the meaning of your dreams, as this can help you understand your feelings. One way to do this is by association. If you dream about people, ask: What does this person mean to me? If you dream about birds, for example, think: do you love them or do they make you nervous? Some people claim they never dream; well, they do, but they just forget.

You may try to recall your dreams, but they will not tell you anything important, as experts have approved.

GRADE 10 – UNIT EIGHT – SUMMARY MAKING

Read the following passage, then do as required:

The tiger is the largest of all the cats. This wild mammal is found in some remote forests and rainforests in East Asia. At present, the tiger is an endangered species in the wild. There are many things we might do to save this animal. Tigers would survive if we stopped cutting the rainforests where they live. Creating natural reserves for this rare animal is another step that can help. Also, if biologists took care of the existing tigers, they would protect them. And if we all stopped illegal tiger trading, hunters wouldn't kill them. If we took these actions, the situation of this species would become better, and tigers wouldn't be in danger of extinction.

GRADE 10 – UNIT NINE – READING COMPREHENSION

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

When the Great War of 1914-1918 broke out, Fleming became an army doctor and carried on his work in France. When a soldier is wounded in a battle, it usually happens that a piece of his dirty clothing is carried deep into the wound by the bullet. The wound becomes bad or septic, and a disease spreads through the body. Sometimes an arm or a leg has to be cut off, or the man would die, not from the wound but from the poison in his body. This happened in thousands of cases in the Great War.

Fleming knew already that microbes, which increased very quickly, caused a disease of this kind. It might be possible to kill them by washing the wound in an acid, called antiseptic; this was always done as soon as possible, but the soldiers still died in great numbers. After the war, Fleming went on working for years, trying to find an antiseptic which would stop microbes from growing, but which would not harm the blood cells, so that the body could carry on its own fight against the disease.

One day, he stopped to examine the glass dishes on which he had grown some microbes in a special liquid. In one dish, he was surprised to notice a greenish mould. That meant a tiny seed, too small to see, must have floated on the dish when the lid was off. Fleming took a closer look and then made a careful examination. He saw that a strange thing had happened. Where the greenish mould was growing, the disease microbes had disappeared. He began to grow enough of the mould to make from it a clear liquid, which tests showed could kill microbes or stop them in both animals and human beings without harming their white blood cells. He called the liquid penicillin.

GRADE 10 – UNIT TEN – READING COMPREHENSION

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

If you have been reading fairy stories, you may believe that all wolves are harmful and evil. They eat children, sheep, and other small animals. They are aggressive and won't stop until they get what they want. There really isn't anything good to say about wolves. Or is there? Are wolves just misunderstood?

Wolves are actually nothing like the characters described in fairy stories. While it is true that their diet consists of deer, rabbits, and other small animals, wolves would never attack a child just for the sake of eating. Wolves have been known to attack people when they threaten them. This happens only rarely. Wolves are usually pretty shy animals. They stay within their own land and protect their own pack (group).

almanahj.com/kw

Wolves are meat eaters, and they must hunt to get their food. They are strong and fast and have sharp teeth. They use their sense of smell to find prey. Wolves hunt in packs and chase their prey until it gets tired. They usually hunt the weakest, slowest animal in a group. Wolves are not cruel; they are just good hunters.

Some wolves, such as the red wolf, are near extinction. Their homes are steadily disappearing as people spread their own homes further into the wilderness. Wolves have also been hunted extensively. Ranchers and farmers pose another threat to wolves. They become angry when wolves come onto their property and eat their chickens and sheep. This is a serious problem, because the farmers lose their animals, and the wolves get shot by the angry farmers. No one wins in this battle.

Wolves are an important part of the balance of nature. They hunt weak animals and help keep down the population of some animals, such as deer. In many countries, it is now against the law to hunt wolves. Many zoos and scientists are working hard to protect wolves because they understand just how important and misunderstood they are.

GRADE 10 – UNIT ELEVEN – READING COMPREHENSION

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

Before mobile phones and computers, written letters were one of the most basic forms of communication to convey thoughts and ideas, to answer queries and everything else that needs to be expressed. The method of sending letters has improved a lot over the years. Around the fourth millennium, cuneiform script was written on stone or clay tablets with a reed. For over 35 centuries, this method of writing and communicating was applied. This has been replaced during the Roman Era with alphabetic writing.

Pigeon post is the use of homing pigeons as messengers. Pigeons have an excellent sense of direction and can easily find their way. After composing the message in little scraps of paper, they tied them to the bird's leg. Up to this present time, pigeon posts continue to be useful in the most remote places where electricity and Internet are unavailable. This method was also used in the military and navy to convey news and orders from one post to another. A far older way than homing pigeons was the use of smoke signals.

Nowadays, there are a lot of procedures on how to send a letter or a package to any part of the world. Among the popular options is the postal service, like FedEx. Shipping fees vary according to the size, weight, the contents of your letter or package and its destination. We have to take into consideration when you want the package to arrive at its destination: overnight shipping (today at night) or next flight-out shipping (where they ship your package once a flight is available). If not urgent, there is also a one to five-day shipping.

If you only need to send a letter faster, the Internet is always available and can provide different options. Email is one of the most common methods. Through an email service, you do not have to write down on a piece of paper, use a stamp or spend money. Emailing is a method of sending a letter virtually, and the recipient can immediately receive it in a matter of seconds or minutes.

GRADE 10 – UNIT TWELVE – READING COMPREHENSION

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

Winter is cold in some places. Many plants do not grow during winter. Some plants die. Snow and ice may cover the ground. It can be hard for animals to find food during winter. Some animals get through this time in many ways.

Birds and butterflies can fly. Many of them do not stick around for the winter. They leave. They go to a place with nice and warmer weather. Then they come home in the springtime. We call this migration. Migration means the movement from one place to another for different reasons. Migrating is a good way to avoid the cold which reaches about -40 in some areas.

Another good way to avoid the cold is to sleep through it. Many animals hide during the winter. Their bodies slow down. They save their energy. They do not eat. They live off their fat. They do this until food returns. We call this hibernation. Snakes, frogs, and bears hibernate. Some animals store food in their homes. They do not sleep all winter, but they do much less. They live on what they saved in the summer and fall. This is what squirrels, beavers, and raccoons do. Skunks do this, too.

Other animals tough it out. They do not leave. They do not hide. They must survive. Sometimes nature helps them out. Some animals grow thicker coats in the winter. Other animals change their colour. For example, the arctic fox is brown in the summer. Its coat turns white in the winter.

Winter may be pretty. It is nice to see snow on the trees. But it is hazardous too. People are also at risk and in danger. You can get frostbitten or worse. How do you beat the winter? Do you wear a thick coat? Do you stay inside? Or do you live somewhere warm?

Experts agree that long-term exposure to high levels of noise pollution affects our health in many ways. Some researchers have documented that regular exposure to noise above 110 decibels can result in permanent hearing loss. Several other studies have also demonstrated a link between noise and digestive problems and immune system disorders. Moreover, in a paper published in a medical journal, it was determined that loud noises lead to elevated blood pressure, fatigue and loss of sleep. VI- READING COMPREHENSION: (80 Marks)

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

People think children should play sports. Sports are fun, and children stay healthy while playing with others. However, playing sports can have negative effects on children. It may produce feelings of poor self-esteem or aggressive behaviour in some children.

According to research on children and sports, 40 million children play sports in the US. Of these, 18 million say they have been yelled at or called names while playing sports. This leaves many children with a bad impression of sports. They think sports are just too aggressive. Many researchers believe adults, especially parents and coaches, are the main cause of too much aggression in children's sports. They believe children copy aggressive adult behaviour. This behaviour is then further reinforced through both positive and negative feedback.

Parents and coaches are powerful teachers because children usually look up to them. Often these adults behave aggressively themselves, sending children the message that winning is everything. At children's sporting events, parents may yell insults at other players or cheer when their child behaves aggressively. As well, children may be taught that hurting other players is acceptable, or they may be pushed to continue playing even when they are injured.

In addition, the media makes violence seem exciting. Children watch adult sports games and see violent behaviour replayed over and over on television. As a society, we really need to face up to this problem and do something about it. Parents and coaches should act as better examples for children. They also need to teach children better values. They should teach children to enjoy themselves whether they win or not. It is not necessary to knock yourself out to enjoy sports. Winning is not everything. In addition, children should not be allowed to continue to play when they are injured. Sending a child with an injury into a game gives the child the message that health is not as important as winning. If we make some basic changes, children might learn to enjoy sports again.
